Boss Johnson Claims Govt. Still Coalition

Premier "Boss" Johnson proposes to carry on the government of B.C., temporarily at least, with a seven-man cabinet. This morning at Government House the seven portfolios relinquished by the four Conservative cabinet ministers who resigned in Friday's Coalition blow-up were distributed among the remaining members of the executive council. There were no new appointments.

ELECTION ECHO

ADMITTED THAT, what with tighter rations and increasing austerity, members of Parliament in Britain are finding their task no sinecure these grim days, they at least are regaled by some humorous situation ons which help ease the t

In such a category I would place the recent court case in Liverpool, in which Mrs. Bessie Braddock, a Labor member for that constituency, charged that she got the scare of her life when a Conservative loud-speaker truck "drove straight at me" on election night, Oct. 25. 'TUGBOAT ANNIE'

MRS. BRADDOCK evidently was justified in bringing the complaint, for the driver of the Tory truck was fined £10 for dangerous driving. But what amused me was that Mrs. Braddock, at the time of the alleged offense, was leading a campaign parade of 200 children singing "Vote for Bessie Braddock"

Mrs. Braddock
when the truck passed so close she and the children's chorus had to jump for safety.
The woman M.P. is a stocky Liverpudlian, weighing about 220 pounds, and of a tough and aggressive nature which has earned for her the sobriquet of "Tugboat Annie" among her fellow M.P.'s.

GILBERTIAN PICTURE

HAVING MET HER on several occasions while in England last year, I can conjure up the Gilbertian picture of this Merseyside character leading her choir of young campaigners, shrilly running the tonic-solfa gamut in their lusty efforts to induce the electors to "Vote for Bessie"—and then to be sideswiped by an opposition truck!

Not knowing the words of that original composition or its tune, I am wondering if it was the lyrical content which proved so upsetting to that Tory true. Giver as to cause him to endanger the lives of the redoubtable Bessie and her brigade. But whatever the cause, I can well imagine the vocal reaction it would evoke from "Tugboat Annie." She would show that Tory "Bullwinkle" that he "couldn't do that there 'ere" get away with it,

NOVEL IDEA

TO DIGRESS a moment, the success of Mrs. Braddock at the polls when so many were going down to defeat, suggests that there may be some merit in her campaign methods no matter what immediate effect it had on the opposition.

Perhaps music can exorcise the negative attitude of the irate or doubting voter as effectively as it can charm the poet's savage breast—even though the singing tactics of an Esquimalt candidate in the by-election last year didn't quite work out that way. Of course, it may all depend on the theme of

But to come back to Mrs. Braddock, she provided one of the lighter moments in the British House of Commons recently when she again accused a Tory—this time a Member—of violent methods.

COMEDY IN HOUSE

ON A POINT of order, she complained to the Speaker that the Conservative M.P. for Burton, Mr. Arthur Colegate, "punched me when I was on my way to the Division lobby, and," she added truculently, "if it had occurred outside the House the honorable gentleman wouldn't have remained on his feet two minutes!"

The House learned that she saw the Tory M.P. having an argument with a Labor M.P. and, according to Mr. Colegate, the lady who represents Liverpool Exchange butted in with "an obviously belligerent attitude." In the subsequent exchange, they were jostled and some slight pushing might have been done, for which he apologized,

FORGIVE AND FORGET

ACCORDING TO THE news report, the Speaker advised both parties to "forgive and forget"—amid good humored laughter. But I can't help feeling that it will be a long time before the House forgets—or refrains from laughing—at that particular incident. For it occurred during a division and, under the rules of the British House, a member rising to a point of order must be seated and wear a hat.

So to comply with those rules, "Tugboat Annie" had to don the man's crush opera hat which is kept for just such emergencies. And if you can imagine the spectacle of one of the concertina-like tophats perched on her greying, rotund head, you will laugh, too. I am only glad that it wasn't my decorum in the Speaker's chair that was tested.

HUMANE — In Washington
United States radiological warfare experts are investigating the war potentialities of atomic dust as a weapon to "dehuman-ize" enemy cities without de-struction of life or property.

Manufacture of atomic dust is no problem. It already exists in radioactive waste materials from atomic piles.

Its use in wartime to contam inate enemy cities or battle po-sitions would represent a hu-mane form-of warfare since inhabitants would not be seriously injured or killed if they evacuated the affected areas within 24 hours.

Mr. Johnson Clears The Decks

DREMIER JOHNSON'S DEMAND FOR the resignation of Finance Minister Anscomb, while sudden and spectacular, was not entirely unexpected.

The point at issue-Mr. Anscomb's premature public disclosure of details of his Ottawa talks on the federal-provincial taxation agreement and his assumption of credit for results already achieved by the Premier-was but the final incident in a series of political frictions extending over many months.

Mr. Anscomb's conduct-his use of his position in the government to further interests in the political campaign that all saw as ultimately unavoidable— left the Premier no alternative. His forthright action in firing his lieutenant has clarified the situation, ended the ail ing Coalition, and precipitated an early general election.

The "fighting Premier" who set his own political house in order only a few days ago at the Liberal executive meet-ing in Vancouver, has again shown his ing in Vancouver, has again shown his hand, and fortified the leadership which will now take the Liberal Party into a hotly-contested campaign,

Few if any Canadian ministers have ever been publicly accused by their government leaders of "flagrant and arrogant disregard" for constitutional procedures, charged with "politically reprehensible actions" or told that no trust can be placed in them. Three years of smouldering patience under conof smouldering patience under con-tinual "baiting" has produced an ex-

The Conservative pattern was set by Mr. Anscomb at an early date, when in public statements from time to time he sought to establish the fact of his dissatisfaction with certain policies of the government while still retaining his posion in it, and asserting his loyalty to

In his budget speech at the last legislative session he inserted comments critical of a fellow cabinet minister after the original draft had been approved by the Premier. In the recent Esquimalt by election both he and Mines Minister Mac-Donald widened the Coalition breach with claims that the government's hits had been due to the Conservative element, its misses the fault of the Liberals. In short, Mr. Anscomb has been playing both sides against the middle, seeking to profit himself and his party from both the credits and debits of the govern-

As a member of the government he has given his consent to government ex-penditures while in radio addresses and on public platforms he has expressed his personal concern over such spending. As a member of the government he has given his assent to hospital insurance, yet outside the cabinet room has frequently voiced his personal criticism of its operation.

These were the actions of a man who should have resigned his position if he found his colleague's decisions unpalatable. Yet he hung on to office until he was summarily dismissed.

Through it all, Mr. Anscomb, although his personal honesty was not in question, has brought criticism on the administration of which he was a part by his retention of the dual role of government. ernment purchaser and private vendor of wines. As a minister of the crown he set or helped to set the prices at which the products of his own winery were purchased by the government (a condition in which Mr. MacDonald, like Mr. Anscomb, a director in the brewing industry, also found himself). This situation was likewise terminated by yester-y's events. There will be province-wide relief that the showdown has come. Important elements of both the Liberal and Con-servative parties had reached the con-clusion that Coalition had served its purpose and that a mandate from the people should be sought on straight party lines. Although the Liberal Party can of itself command a slight majority in the Legislature it has no public authoriza-tion to govern on its own, its members having been elected as Coalition sup porters. The forthcoming session of the Legislature must therefore be confined to voting temporary supply for the continuance of the affairs of the province. An election at the earliest oppor-tunity will then open the way to a new phase of political history.

The Incredible Mr. Andrews

IN AN ERA WHEN SECURITY, ESPEicially that provided by the state, has become the chief demand of many people, it is refreshing to hear of a man who stands up and announces: "I think it is the duty of the individual to provide for his own future security. Thus away to the theatre to witness "Seven Days to Noon," a most gripping British entertainment, enlivened by the ackting of Mistress Olive Sloane, demm'd fetching. So wearily home and to bed.

THURSDAY, 17TH-This morning I waked at 5 a.m., and tossed for two hours, consumed with ingenious plans which, in broad daylight, seemed foolish indeed; so I set them aside. My boy having a stye in his eye from late read-ing beneath the coveriets, went lamely to school, protesting that he was ill met for his studies, but I basted him merrily, and he went. Anon to the hotel, where I had my hair trimm'd, and new laces put in my slippers, and my buckles shined, and found this a simple tonick to the spirits. At my club, chatted with Master Lloyd Detwiller and Master Jack Todd who, 'twas reported, can swim the length of Crystal Pool under water in 32 seconds, which becomes this genial fish merchant. To my place of business for a brisk casting-up of accounts, and many crucial matters; but growing weary, I quit this place and took me home for tea. By and by I sat listening to "Swan Lake," a most rase piece of musick, and discoursed of plans for a birthday celebration. Thence to listen to a debate on Canadian culture "Citizens' Forum," which moved most ponderously, and proved infinite dull. So to my books and my bed.

FRIDAY, 18th Great hue and cry in the streets this day; our tortured govern-ment hath collapsed! And I am glad of it. For the party sniping is now en pleine air, and I was much amused by Master Anscomb's wry concern for Mas-ter Johnson's health, he knowing only too well that the premier hath never been in more rampunctious fettle. Anon two calls: an aged citizen reproving me as a "stubble jumper" because this jour-nal hath expressed its displeasure with the skating at the arena; and Waldo Skillings, wracked with lumbago but strong enough to discourse of politicks, My supper this night was a rare bird, which I sliced with a fine poinard's edge, which Mistress Elizabeth Molson hath honed. By and by to the College, where Dame Stewart-Galafres discoursed with infinite charm and dramaticks on the art of ballet, a great press of persons joying themselves in the narration, and the themselves in the narration musick of Debussy and Strav the graceful verbal noisegays of Master Bert Hebden. Thus away to the Arts Centre, which gleamed brightly through the night air, the city having levelled many trees, as is its wont, the better to expose this handsome house to view, and thus attrackt many visitors. And I joyed myself in spirited converse with Mistress Nan Hutton, she wearing a corduroy of canary; Mistress Wynne Shaw, she wearing coins at her eares and neck, demm'd fetching; and Mistress Florence Clough, she wearing a stylish stiff shirting with black cravate. Thus away home, full of turkey, bon-bons, whisky, cheese sandwiches, coffee and culture. And so I made shift to slumber,

Churchill, Unique Showman, Brought Ottawa Combination Of Seriousness And Spicy Wit

unforgettable figure on even the small-est crowd of sightseers who watch him pass. As one who, he told us, has spent half his life-all the time he was out of office—making his living by selling words, he values them highly and treats them with the greatest respect.

If you think these wonderful speeches come without long effort, you misunder-stand him greatly. In the last volume of his memoirs he tells how he spent some days' rest fishing north of Quebec in 1943. But after the holiday he was to broadcast; and he writes: "This hung overhead like a vulture in the sky."

Here in Ottawa last week-end he had Here in Ottawa last week-end he had two speeches to prepare: last Monday's broadcast from here and his speech to Congress. It is, apparently, only at a late stage in the preparation of a speech starts dictating drafts. The real before that, when he thinks out phrases, groups them in his mind.

He likes even to try them out in conversation, to see whether they sound as he hopes and whether they are worthy of being used in the speech. I have seen him giving his wartime broadcasts both at Quebec and at Wash-ington. Up to the last moment before going on the air he works on the draft with a pencil, making small last-minute alterations. He is utterly absorbed, gruff and unresponsive, at these times.

The irresistible exuberance of earlier times is still apparent. At his meetings with Canadian ministers, as with the Americans at Washington, he talked with a briliant combination of high seriousness and spicy wit.

People who had said beforehand that People who had said beforeand that they weren't quite sure why he was coming and didn't know what he could achieve were completely captivated. When Mr. Churchill left-they were the first to say what a successful and useful visit it had been.

The price of this infectious enthusism and huguart humor from a man of asm and buoyant humor from a man of 77 is, of course, inevitable. He must save himself for the right occasions. He must rest at more frequent intervals than he used to. Hence the very sen-sible pattern of the morning in bed, whenever possible, and the afternoon whenever possione and the attention formally devoted to a long sleep. The remarkable thing is the ability to relax which he so obviously commands, and which enables him to put on the brilliant show he does when the occasions require.

Mr. Churchill is not, I gather, getting any more patient as he gets older. He wants things done in a hurry. He always wanted them done his way; but he is now leaving more of the detail to his other ministers.

In the field of foreign questions he has, of course, the experienced old hand in Mr. Anthony Eden who is nearly al-ways at his side. Mr. Eden kept in the background at Ottawa, because the way London has things organized Anglo-Canadian relations are not his responsibil-ity. They come under the view of the Commonwealth Relations Office, not the Foreign Office; and Mr. Eden was carefully not getting in the light of the new Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations, General the Right Honorable Lord Ismay

Lord Ismay's nickname is "Pug." He is a burly soldier with a rugged, fighting face, who served throughout the war as Mr. Churchill's personal Chief of Staff. The speech he gave to the Canadian Club in Ottawa was the first speech he'd ever made as a politician; and the drafts prepared for him by the inevitable officials had obviously undergone a great deal of alteration from his gone a great deal of alteration from his own hand. Included among the addi-tions was his remark that he was a cavalry officer; and, he said, "I don't need to remind you of the old story about the cavalry officer who was so stupid that his brother officers noticed it."

It's not much more than a year since Mr. Attlee was in Ottawa after a visit to Washington. That was an important meeting. But the Churchill touch has not been dimmed by the years. He makes memorable things which would seem insignificant done by other men.

Recently I left your beautiful city of Victoria, and have taken up permanent residence in Desert Hot Springs, California. As a man conducting my own business in neighboring Palm Springs, I read with much interest the proposed idea of Mayor Harrison endeavoring re restart a boat passenger car service be-tween Victoria' and San Francisco. COLD FIREMEN

Why are the firemen, who are most valuable for the safety of the town and surroundings, allowed to suffer from the cold of their building? I should think for all concerned either the building should be exchanged or good heat in-stalled. Don't you agree?

Touchy Vishinsky

Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky was understandably touchy when Min-ister of Justice Stuart S. Garson twitted him in the United Nations by references to the prewar attitude of then Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinov. For it was V. M. Molotov, who succeeded Litvinov, and Vishinsky who were instrumental in reversing Litvinov's policies. Litvinov believed communism could make more progress by having some amity exist between Russia and the West; Molotov and Vishinsky in promoting com-munism through a break with the West. EASIER SAID THAN DONE

Following your editorial in the Times on "The Cost of Electricity" in which you say the main cause of the advances in the cost of production is the wage increases.

Two years ago I wrote a letter which you-kindly published in your valuable paper, stating that if our governments were to halt the price advances and at the same time freeze wages at that day's level, it would end the spiral of increase in the price of many commodities.

I was hoping at that time many of your readers would follow my lead, and that several letters along the same line would be published. Many of my friends, now tell me they are very sorry that they did not do so. But their regrets are quite a bit late, for now they see that I was right.

It is an interesting and an odd commentary on personal spiritual experience that many men have found it in what would seem, at first blush, to be the most unlikely place—the armed services.

It is reasonable, of course, that men will give some thought to tred life finds a tremendous response among the men of the service, and most will testify that their years of wartime ministry were the most effective years of their lives.

Recognition of the need for better work in this field has led to a new movement in the United States, one which is under serious consideration in Canada.

Civilian teams of Protestant ministers are carrying the Gospel to barracks, guard house and hospital, counselling and preaching. Some of the biggest names in Protestantism are participating with the backing of President Truman and the military.

Services 'Firm In The Faith'

The first service, held last week at the signal corps centre Fort Monmouth, N.J., brought 1,100 soldiers and their families into the post field house, where a makeshift altar was raised under a picture of Christ.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 19 (CP)-A new cancer treatment, developed from Canada's atomic pile at Chalk River, Ont., increases the rate of cure in certain types of cancer, Dr. I. A. Smith of London, Ont., reported here Friday.

The doctor has been using the new method-cobalt 60 beam therapy-since last October reported his findings to the an-nual meeting of the Canadian Association of Radiologists.

Dr. Smith described the therapy, developed by Canadian scientists, as "a new weapon, tremendously expanding previous methdously expanding previous mem-ods of treating concer."

He said that since installation of the cobait 60 beam unit in a London hospital last fall, 51 pa-tients have come under its treatment, and doctors have recorded an observation period of two and one-half months.

INCREASES MORALE

"Initial observations are most encouraging," he said. It is a terrific morale boost to both physician and patient:

"On a physical basis, we are satisfied it will increase the cure rate—at least on deep-seated can-cers. But it will take five years to know whether it is going to increase the general cure rate.
"Scientists and persons who have been devoting their entire life's work to cancer research feel they have something now to work on, and they have not wasted their time." Cobalt 60, he said, produces more effective treatment than radium because of the far greater penetration of its radioactive ravs.

produces less general reaction on the patient than radium or X-ray treatment, he added. "It is a great pleasure to see patients getting treatment with practically no ill effects."

DOWN MEMORY LANE: Even in the world of sports, history repeats itself and, accordingly it came as no surprise to veteran hockey fans this season when the Pacific Coast League and the Western Canada League amalgamated and continued somewhat curtailed operations under the name of the P.C.H.L. . . . . Much the same type of amalgamation took place in the mid-20s when the the prairie cities began to feel the financial pinch and the expanding National Hockey League in the east was moving into the excited States. excited States.

It is strange that Regina—which now budgets $225,000 for a football team each year—failed to support a professional hockey team on two previous occasions. . . And, last year, Regina promoters took a financial bath as they attempted to operate a so-called senior amateur team which would have moved into this season's Pacific Coast League. . . . Regina had good flockey teams, too. . . . If the carry solution in the country . . . . If the carry is parrow was the equal of any in the country. . . . They had Bill Laird (succeeded by the immortal Red McCusker) in goal and Puss Traub, Bob Trapp and . Ambrose Jason Moran on the defence. . . . Charlie "Rabbit" McVeigh, who later became celebrated for his jumping jack antics in the N.H.L., was a substitute forward. But Wes Champ lost a bundle in Regina and the team eventually was shifted to Portland.

Duke Was With The Best Of Them

Nowadays, they talk of Duke Keats or Eddie Shore as Ed monton's greatest hockey players but the most spectacular star of the old Eks was "Corkscrew-Joe" Simpson from Selkirk, Man. When Joe made one of his weaving rushes, the customers when Joe made one of his weaving rushes, the customers jumped right out of their seats. . . . At one time they had Hal Winkler (he of the nude pate) in goal and Art Gagne and Ty Arbour played the wings of Keats. . . Yeah and how about the night that the tempermental Shore was wandering around the night-boat to Victoria on crutches and complaining about a cut foot? . . And someone grabbed the crutches and threw them foot? . . . And someone grabbed the crutches and threw them overboard and Shore played the next night.

Down in Calgary they had such hearty defencemen as Herb Gardiner and Red Dutton. . . Up front they had lithe Foley Martin, and, and one time, that celebrated axe-man Cully Wilson. . There was one night when Wilson cross-cheeked Dick Irvin and rammed Irvin's teeth right through his tongue. . Irvin took emergency repairs and Wilson sat in the penalty-box with his chin resting on the railing. . . The ordinarily gentle Irvin sidled along the boards until he was directly in front of Wilson. . . Then, Irvin raised his stick and brought it down on Wilson's crumpet. . . . He opened up Wilson like the main working of the Lucky Baldwin Mine.

The Cougars And The Big Leagues

Out in Vancouver (after the days of Si Griffis and Cyclone Taylor) they still had old Hughie "Eagle-Eye" Lehman in goal and fellows like Frankie Boucher, Mickey Mackay, Art Duncan, Alf Skinner and Jack Adams. . . . There was considerable retrenchment in the mid-20s and the Seattle team disappeared with Frank Foyston, Jack Walker and Goalie Happy Holmes moving over to the Victoria Cougars. . . Lester Patrick still was taking an oc-casional turn on the defence in the early days of that decade. . . The Cougars had Frank Frederickson and Slim Halderson from the Winnipeg Falcons and there were fellows like Eddie Oatman, Gizzy Hart and little Jocko Anderson. . . . The Cougars whomped the Montreal Canadiens, three games to one, for the Stanley Cup in 1925 and they were beaten by the Montreal Maroons in 1926—the year that the combined western leagues finally sold out to the wealthy eastern interests.

They Had Characters In Those Days

Holmes' predecessor in the Victoria goal was Hec Fowler, the fire-buff who once held up a game on the prairies because he arrived at the rink about 20 minutes late. . . He jumped on a passing fire truck and had been watching a two-alarm blaze.

Although the Cooks and Boucher of the Rangers and the Boston. Although the Cooks and Boucher of the Kangers and the Boston "Dynamite Trio" of Dit Clapper, Cooney Weiland and Dutch Gainor became more famous, Fredrickson, Oliver and Galbraith are reputed to have originated that style of play. . . Okay, okay—let's start an argument. . . Nope, Charlie Gardiner didn't play on those old teams but he played for Winnipeg Maroons in the American Association. . The Maroons also sent Art Somers to the New York Rangers and Nick Wasnie went to Montreal Canadiens to replace Gagne on the right wing for Howie Morenz and Aurel Jollat.

Strictly Hush-Hush

Dodger manager Charley Dressen signifies that everything is hush-hush as Jackie Robinson signs his Brooklyn contract for the 1952 season. The great second baseman, who is rated by many one of the best infielders in baseball today, reportedly signed for $42,000—$7,000 over last year, but any increase will have to be approved by the Salary Stabilization Board. Robinson was one of the first Dodgers to ink his new contract.

CROWNS ON NEW HEADS

OSHAWA, Jan. 19 (CP)—A blonde Winnipeg beauty and a confident 14-year-old Toronto boy have won the junior Canadian figure skating championships.

Rosemary Henderson, 19, who competed in today's senior ladies' events, edged Ann Johnston, 15, of Toronto, in the free skating event after placing, on a point basis, just slightly below the slim brunette in the compulsory school figures.

Charlie Enelling, also of Toronto, performed with ease to skate off the ice as Canada's new junior champion. The title was held last year by a fellow Torontonian, Peter Dunfield.

She is not breathlessly good-looking, but she is so fascinating that you'll see her in your memory for many a day. And what a dancer! You'll also discover a new blonde, slick-moving, slow-smiling woman called Nina Foch who as Gene Kelly's patron (he's a struggling Quartier Latin artist in this picture) brings a bit of omething different to the screen the shape of a likeable, yes really likeable 'feminine lure'

And there's Oscar Levant. As concert pianist he delivers a fantastic repertoire of clever moments with a froglike expressive ness that makes even French star Georges Guitary look a trifle handsomer. And what Oscar does to Gene Kelly...

Well - Gene Kelly! He has never had a better film than this . And he dances with his fasnating new partner as never before—and also proves, right, left and crosswise, that he can act. There is much top flight modern ballet. And when Kelly's feet get caught up into that sort of thing, they really do mean something—cela va sans dire!

A few Saturdays ago at a football game in the students' section of the University of Washington's new 55,000-seat stadium a capacity crowd was worked up to near hysteria.

About half way through the game the university's 200-p'o u nd, all. American fullback broke into the clear and began one of his long jig. jagging runs to a touchdown, Every man, woman and child in the stadium leaped up, screaming with delight.

A young man wearing a turban was one of the crowd. When the exciting play began he was one of the first to, lump to his feet. He dehered with all his might, yet he knew nothing about football except that this was good for "his" side.

After the touchdown, when the students burst into the school's "fight song," the turbaned you ut he was the first to bellow out the words with little regard to tune. "bow down to Washington, mighty are the men who wear the purple and the gold." He sang with enthusiasm—he had become part of Washington.

Throughout the United States there turben.

At Washington there are $32 including 140 Canadian students. All of them are seeing and fe eli in got them are seeing and fe eli in g. America for the first time. Here they are absorbing the very substance of the country — the enthusiasm, the love of bigness, of color and of scientific specialization, even in athletic games. This is probably the greatest thing that the foreign student learns, for it is such experiences that will bring foreign ers, and foreign countries, closer to the heart of America.

After the game the turbaned student along with a group of his friends from other foreign lands, sat down to dinner with a number of American students in one of the university's many organized living groups. Here he further finds the true American. The voluptuous blonde he may have seen in a Holly, wood movie before leaving Eombay is not likely to be seated at the table but here he will see a truer picture of American life.

For the 140 Canadian students who are studying at this university the great transition between countries is not so abrupt and exciting.

The Canadian student, however, has no more trouble becoming adjusted than he would have in a Canadian university. To him the most important discovery, whether he realizes it at the time or not, is the fact that he is a Canadian, and an American only by geography.

He may have read the fact of his elizanship on his passport before leaving home but after living in the United States for a few weeks he finds the rive meaning of the passport. For in a relatively s ma all country such as ours, situated so close to its giant neighbor, there is

Emphasis In 1952 Will Be On 'Shapelier Shape'

"Danger—Curves ahead."
So reads the sign posted by some of the nation's top designers posted on the fashion route for 1952.
The designers generally agreed the year will see no drastic changes other than to put more stress on what one expert called "the shape."
Twenty-five designers, pooling their predictions, agreed that the hemline would remain fairly unchanged, the petticoat would continue to peek from under same, and skirts will get neither fuller nor skimpier.

"London Inmortals," by Theodora Benson (Ambassador Books), is a delightful work of nostalgic and whimsical scholarship described by the author as a "rag-bag book and random indeed." London is perambulated district by district and among the ghosts we encounter are those of characters as diverse, august or curious as John Donne, Judge Jeffreys, Joseph Grimaldi, the Witch of Edironton, Dante Gabriel Rosserti, William Blake, "Skittles," Robert Browning and Dr. Crippen. The text is illustrated from a wide choice for old prints, engravings and carlcatures, and by Nicholas Bentley, and witty drawings by Nicholas Bentley.

"Mister Zip," by H. Allen Smith is a western in reverse. It is the story of a movive here cowboy who yearns to be a real cowboy. Zip LeBaron, born Clifford Humphrey, has attained fame and fortune in the rechlooded Hollywood style, but his boyish heart is unsatisfied by make-believe. He wants the real thing—or what he believes to be the real thing—and proceeds to go after it. Surprisingly enough he attains his goal complete with a cartle rusher shoot, defeat of the heroine. ## Army Officer On Interchange Duty Married In Wiltshire

The marriage took place at All Saints' Church, East Harnham, Salisbury, Wiltshire, on Friday, Dec. 21, of Capt. William W. Turner, Royal Canadian Horse Artil-lery, elder son of Col. Maurice W. Turner, O.B.E., C.D., and Mrs. Turner, 1684 Yale Street, Victoria, B.C., and Miss Hope Richardson Russell, second daughter of the late Flying Officer G. W. R. Russell and of Mrs. C. M. Richardson of Harnham Road, Salisbury, Wiltshire, and granddaughter of Sir Robert Pattison, D.L., of the Fosse House, Lincoln. The Rev. A. J. Burgess, R.D. (Vicar) officiated and the hymns sung were "Gracious Spirit, Holy Ghost" and "O Perfect Love." Mr. H. Galè was at the organ. The bride was given away by her 13-year-old brother, Hugh Richardson, in the absence of her older brother, Lieut. David Russell, Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, serving with his regiment in the Suez Canal zone of Egypt. She wore a plain grey tailored suit and a dutsy pink feathered cap with veiling, and accessories to match. The best man was Capt. S. M. Yeoman, who like the bridegroom is an instructor of gunnery at the School of Artillery, Larkhill. The reception, attended by a number of intimate friends and relations, was held at the Red Lion Hotel, Salisbury. Later Capt. and Mrs. Turner left for their honeymoon. They will make their home at Little Thatches, Stratford-sub-Castle, Nr. Salisbury. Capt. Turner is on interchange duty with the British Army for a period of two years.

Mr. and Mrs. James Loudoun, 2563 Heron Street, are announcing this week-end the engagement of their younger daughter, Miss Margaret G. Loudoun, to Mr. Reginald W. Hind, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Hind, Winnipeg, Man. The marriage will take place on Saturday, Feb. 23, at 8 o'clock in First United Church, Victoria. Miss Loudoun will have as matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. Mary McTaggart, and her niece, Miss Gail Loudoun as flower maid. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

TO HONOR THE V.O.N.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18 (CP). Canada will tip its hat next month to Victorian Order of Nurses, the more than 500 girls in blue who help guard the nation's health in towns and cities from coast to coast.

The week of Feb. 24 has been set aside in their honor.

"Its purpose," V.O.N. president, Mr. Justice C. H. Locke, said in a statement, "is to bring about a better public understanding of the work of the V.O.N."

Cleaner Makes Stainless Steel 'Stainlesser!'

By PENNY SAVER

By PENNY SAVER

I've got news for you!

Yes! A surely have!

I bet there have been numerous occasions when you have grumbled about the dull gloss, or no gloss at all, on your copper stainless steel pots and pans. If you haven't, then you should have. No one likes pots looking dull and "used."

Now to get down to business.

As you may have guessed, I have found a powdery substance that will restore the gloss of copper stainless steel objects; remove rust; is excellent for car bumpers and trim; also cleans brass and bronze. No, it does not make the beds. I'm sorry!

This amazing cleaner comes in a 12-ounce bottle with plastic shaker top for 99 pennies. It is possible to buy larger amounts to refill this size.

This Is How You Use Cleaner

First of all you wet the utensil you wish to clean, then sprinkle the area with the powder and it will form a sort of paste. Next, you firmly wipe with a damp cloth until bright finish is restored. Wash and dry it thoroughly.

If you want a particularly brilliant lustre, apply cleaner again, only this time you use dry powder and dry cloth until desired finish is obtained.

I hope you like it.

It won't be too long now before we'll be storing our woolens away and unless you want the moths to have a nice chewy "banquet" you had better get mothballs or a spray to protect

There is a very good spray that you can buy at $1.29 for 16 ounces, or $2.57 for 32 ounces.

I know you'll be interested to know that this spray is odorless. That sold me on it right away. Besides that it is colorless and non-inflammable. A sure way of keeping your woolens in one piece while they Scientific? . . . well, the old saying, "never touched by human hands," certainly fits the milk produced by her cows. They are milked in a parlor, no less.

At milking time, her cows are the code from their heart down as

R.C.M.P. today asked for aid in determining the where-about of Prof. John Sandfield MacDonald Langlois, of the staff of the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, who disappeared mysteriously Jan. 3.

Langlois is an associate professor in modern languages.
He was first missed when he failed to attend a college faculty meeting Jan. 3 but no particular significance was placed on his absence at that time.

When he failed to appear for lectures Jan. 7, R.C.M.P. were...

called to investigate,

Langlois is reported to have been in indifferent health for some time. There is some thought he may be suffering from amnesia.

Police describe Langlois as being about 5 feet, 9, weighing about 160 pounds. He carries himself erect; has brown eyes and dark brown hair combed pompadour style.

When last seen he was wearing a brown suit, heavy dark overcoat, brown shoes and brown hat.

STARKEY—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, John Starkey, who passed away Jan. 20, 1951. His kindly way and pleasant face.

Are a pleasure to recall.

He had an understanding way with each And died beloved by all.

-Mickey, Doug and Bud. THOMPSON-In loving memory of Leda Thompson, who passed away Jan. 19.

In our home she is fondly remembered.
Eweet memories cline to her name,
Those who lood her in life sincerely.
Still low her in death just the same.
Ever remembered by husband, Sam, and daughters, Leon, Janet and Ruth.

WITH TOMMIE WALTERS Eight 15-minute radio programs dealing with the oblem of alcoholism, entitled, "The Lonesome oad," will be broadcast on CJOR Sunday nights at 10.15, commencing this Sunday. The programs, pro duced by Columbia University in New York, will feature the actual voices of alcoholics as tape recorded, together with a down-to-earth discussion of the problem. The series is being presented as a public service and as a tribute to Alcoholics Anonymous in consideration of the work they are doing, and have done, in British Columbia.

Bert Cannings, news and special events director Bert Cannings, news and special events director of CKWX, is at present on a flying trip to Britain. Made under the auspices of the Royal Canadian Air Force, the purpose of the trip is to do coverage on the R.C.A.F. Jet Fighter units in Britain for WX and affiliated stations. Visits will be made also to the units of the 27th Infantry Brigade now in Britain, and there are distinct possibilities the visits will be extended to include Canadian units stationed in Germany. During these During views with Canadian servicemen which will be localized for each of the affiliated stations, reach ing as far east as Ontario. Cannings made two previous trips for private Canadian stations. One was to Japan and Korea, and the other to *Opera-tion Sweetbrier" above the Arctic Circle.

* * * TV ECHOES . . . First video test films of radio's "Bragnet" have been greeted with such enthusiasm that a continuing series, complete with sponsor, is expected to be announced shortly. ford is asking Warner Brothers for a revision her contract which will allow her to do a weekly TV show....NBC is about to sign a five-year TV deal with Harpo Marx. The pact is for a number of guest shots each year rather than for a regular series.:.. Veloz and Yolanda, famous dance team. are being sought to star in network TV show.

Another report has it, NBC is negotiating a deal whereby the net will acquire all rights to "Hopalong Cassidy" for $8,000,000.

A nationally-known Chicago sponsor is continuing talks for TV's "Timmy O'Toole Time" and there's a good possibility the show, which features Frank Webb instructing youngsters and grownurs in the art of drawing voungsters are the art of drawing voungsters and grownurs in the art of drawing voungsters are the art of drawing voungsters and grownurs in the art of drawing voungsters are the art of drawing voungsters and grownurs in the art of drawing voungsters and grownurs in the art of drawing voungsters are the art of drawing voungsters and grownurs in the art of drawing voungsters are t ing youngsters and grownups in the art of draw

Coalition Continues

Johnson Maintains

Premier "Boss" Johnson proposes to carry on the government of B.C., temporarily at least, with a seven-man cabinet.

This morning at Government House the seven portfolios relinquished by the four Conservative cabinet ministers who resigned in Friday's Coalition blow-up were distributed among the remaining members of the executive council. There were no new appointments.

At the same time the Premier's office made it clear he still considers the government a "coalistion" despite the fact the Conservatives have left it.

It was pointed out Labor Minister John Cates was elected as an out-and-out Coalitionist and remains in the government.

The transport department official said from Sandspit:

"The plane is in about 15 feet of water and the fail and wing are visible. The fuselage looks like it's in one piece."

The tug Labouchere and two fishboats patrolled the area, looking for survivors who might have drifted from the wreck in lifejackets.

The wreckage was first spotted.

The ceremony at Government House took place at 11. It was attended by a large party of newsmen, photographers, and radio people. For the first time in history permission was given for the formal affair to be recorded for broadcast.

Apart from aides, the only a stop spectators were Deputy Provincial Secretary R. A. Pennington and Byron Johnson Jr., son of the Premier.
